Reason for Change

These products are being introduced as part of Athens Bioscience's ongoing expansion and optimization of its product portfolio. The additions reflect customer demand and our ability to provide these products as supported commercial offerings.

Impacted Documents

Applicable product specifications, Certificates of Analysis (COAs), Safety Data Sheets (SDSs), product listings, catalogs, price lists, website listings, and other commercial documentation will be created or updated to incorporate the new products.

Existing products and their associated specifications are not affected by this change.

Timing of Change

The new products will become commercially available as of 1 October 2026. Product availability may vary based on inventory and manufacturing lead times.

Additional Information

The addition of these products does not alter the specifications, manufacturing processes, or quality requirements of existing Athens Bioscience products.

Product-specific specifications and documentation will be available as applicable. Custom sizes, configurations, or quantities may also be available for select products and will be evaluated and quoted individually.

For any questions regarding product specifications, availability, documentation, or custom requirements, please contact our team at sales@athensbioscience.com.

Best Regards,
Athens Bioscience, Inc.
